Meat processing plant gets funds

BY MELISSA BLANKENSHIP
publisher@hclocal.com

What began as a wish list item for local livestock producers has just surpassed a major hurdle on its way to becoming a reality.

On Friday, Trackside Butcher Shoppe, a proposed regional multi-species meat processing facility that will be located in Campbellsburg, received the initial level of funding needed to begin construction.

The 6,500 square foot facility will process beef, pork, lamb, goats, chickens and rabbits, as well as deer. The current estimated cost of turnkey construction for the project, which includes a retail storefront, is right under $1 million.

Co-owners Chris Wright and John Edwards applied for Kentucky Agricultural Development Funds (KADF) totaling $386,000. As of Friday, the project had been awarded $210,000 comprised of state and several county board allocations. In light of this year's dramatic reduction in funds available through KADF, the accomplishment is nothing short of remarkable to the owners.

"The state said they'd be surprised if we could raise $100,000 from the counties," Edwards said. "To make it to this point where we are talking about breaking ground is really exciting."

Funds through the KADF are grants that Wright and

C-burg replaces chronically absent official

BY CHRIS BROOKE

A new Campbellsburg City Council member will soon take the place of an elected official who rarely showed up for meetings, after action by council at its May 19 meeting.

After a brief closed session, when the council returned to regular meeting, Mayor Rex Morgan said they discussed the removal of Earl Higgins, who was not present.

Council Member Jason Stanley made a motion to remove Higgins for willful neglect of performance of duties of the office, having only attended three meetings in the past year.

Bill Brammell, city attorney, suggested the motion say that Higgins has been willfully negligent by not showing up.

Andy Murray seconded the motion, and the council members raised their hands to affirm the vote to end Higgins' term early.

Campbellsburg officials now have 30 days to fill the position, and Morgan suggested a name for consideration.

"David Gray is willing to serve the remainder of the term of Earl Higgins' position," the mayor said. "[Gray] did run last election and was not elected, so he did express an interest in the past...."

The remainder of the term runs through Jan. 1 and an election will take place this November for a new city council.

Morgan asked if there were any other recommendations.

"A lot of people always want to change, want to do something, but they don't have the guts to run and [Gray] did," Stanley said.

Council members could come up with other names, but if those people don't want to serve then it wouldn't do any good,

Brunswick's fall

Remembering 'the goods' of the sports factory

BY CHRIS BROOKE
editor@hclocal.com

Like a set of tenpins on league night, the Brunswick factory has taken a fall.

The oldest factory in Eminence came down as part after being purchased by new owner Born Investments, but two former workers for the U.S. sporting goods manufacturer said the company uplifted the community while it produced its bowling and golf bags.

Alice and Tom Ferguson, known as the owners of the Chat-N-Nibble, managed human resources and Tom started as an engineer and then moved on to quality control and designing golf bags.

At its peak, the manufacturer employed between 400 and 500 people from the region, running two shifts.

The company started out small in the upstairs of the Old Deposit Bank until the opening of the plant in 1961, built on the county fairgrounds.

Once the 167,000-square-foot plant got up and running, it produced many product for MacGregor sporting goods and stores like J.C. Penney, Western Auto, Kmart and Otasco.

"The maximum we were making was about 200,000 bowling bags a year and a little over 100,000 golf bags a year," Tom said.

The company also produced a radar camouflage for the defense department and made panels for the mobile military hospitals, com-

Tobacco monies wither for the season

publisher@hclocal.com

Since 2001, local farmers have been encouraged to move away from tobacco and into more diverse agricultural production involving livestock, vegetables and even wineries, using monies made available through a lawsuit against tobacco companies. This year, many farmers won't see much, if any, of those funds as a result of a lawsuit.

Only an act of the General Assembly has made it possible for counties to receive any funds at all.

"The governor's budget did not allow for money for county accounts," said Representative Rick Rand, who serves as the budget committee chairperson. "I recommended that $6 million go to the counties. It was important to get some money back to the counties for them to invest."

The Tobacco Master Settlement Agreement (MSA) was entered into in November 1998, originally between the four largest U.S. tobacco companies and 46 states. The states settled their Medicaid lawsuits against the tobacco industry for recovery of their tobacco-related healthcare costs.

In exchange, the companies agreed to modify or even cease certain tobacco marketing practices, as well as compensate the states for some of the medical costs associated with treatment of smoking-related illnesses. In the MSA, the original participating manufacturers agreed to pay a minimum of $206 billion over the first 25 years of the agreement.

Half the money Kentucky receives from the settlement goes toward public health and early childhood development, while the second half is applied toward agricultural programs. The Kentucky Agricultural Development Fund was created by the General Assembly in 2000 to distribute the monies meant to diversify Kentucky's farms and their products through cost-share programs intended to support that effort. As of January 2010, the state had invested more than $300 million to tobacco settlement money into those agricultural products.

The Kentucky Agricultural Development Board oversees distribution of funds and invests in innovative proposals that increase net farm income and effect tobacco farmers, tobacco-impacted communities monly known as MASH units.

Brunswick also made wiring harnesses for the automatic pin setters at the end of bowling alleys. “When you’re on this end of the line and you throw the ball, and it comes back to you there’s a lot more to it than you realize,” Alice noted.

The national company actually got started making hunting clothes, vests, gun covers, hunting jackets, sleeping bags and more. That evolved into equipment for many different sports.

A task Tom never got around to completing involved making a magnesium tennis racket, for its lightness. “As hard as we tried, we could never get one to hold a finish.”

Notable athletes of the day signed up to promote sporting good labels, and golf great Jack Nicklaus hefted around examples of the work done in Eminence. Because of that, Tom got to meet the pro at the MacGregor headquarters in Cincinnati.

Brunswick would custom make the equipment for the star athletes. “That’s one of my memories — we had to do all kind of special things for his golf bags,” Tom said. “He didn’t want his cashmere sweaters to get wet, so we made an inside pocket — it was waterproof so if his bag was in a downpour his sweaters didn’t get wet.

“We made him at least one and sometimes as many as three each year... leather, high end, monogrammed.”

Both Alice and Tom remembered Brunswick as a good place to work. One thing the company did to build camaraderie involved creating a “men’s club,” for the salaried personnel to go out and have a “golf tournament” on a weekly basis after the work day.

“Probably what I would say that the men’s club did was the cohesiveness of the group, they could work together and play together and pull together as a group and it helped the whole working environment,” Alice said.

A women’s club existed, too.

Most of the employment in the facility actually went to women, Alice said.

As the first factory in Eminence, the place had a big impact on the economics of the community.

“It was a major source of employment for a poor county I think and it was predominantly women that worked there because of the sewing jobs back in the early ‘60s, sewing was a woman’s job.”

Men also held some sewing jobs, Tom quickly added. Those arose from the need to sew thick plastic parts on the top or the bottom of a golf bag, for example.

By the mid-80s, Brunswick struggled, and the Fergusons left the company.

Working there also had impacts on Alice’s personal life, too.

“I guess probably the most special thing about it is that’s where I met Tom and look what happened,” she said, smiling while motioning to Tom sitting beside her at the diner.

Employment at Brunswick became a family affair for her back in 1961 when her mother worked at the recently finished plant.

“It certainly provided a lot better life for the people, a lot of women, who worked there,” Alice said. “Their husbands were farmers and that gave them a regular paycheck

It probably changed many lives.”

The workplace became a family to Alice, who could interact with others more closely in the human resources office.

“I was from Shelby County originally and I got to meet a lot of super individuals,” she said.

Brunswick couldn’t fight the trend that many domestic textile-related companies have faced and went out in the 1990s.

“Probably the biggest think was overseas competition,” Alice said. “It’s cheaper to make it overseas than it was here, cheaper labor.”

The building saw some reuses over the years — Louisville Saydah, which made home goods like towels, placemats, cushions; a custom motorcycle shop; an auction house — but nothing stuck.

The company designed the factory for light industry only, and it didn’t have the high ceilings and the thick floors needed to do metal work or other heavy manufacturing.

On Wednesday, contractors Everman and Everman from Winchester had used an excavator to knock down much of the factory, so only the front brick part remained at lunchtime.

Great piles of rubble lay scattered over the parking lot and would soon be the only remnants of the building.

The Fergusons hated to see it go.

“The Brunswick plant has been a great boon both for Eminence and Henry County,” Tom said. “I’m sorry its not there any more — some things have to go by the wayside if you want them to or not.”

With the factory torn down, many people wonder what comes next for the property.

From what the new owners told Eminence Mayor Drane Stephens, they are simply clearing the property to make it more attractive to a manufacturing firm or build to spec, if an interested party comes along.

“The building was not repairable,” the mayor said. “The roof was in such bad shape, it would have cost more than the building was worth.”

No plans of what to do with the property beyond getting it ready for the next occupant have been shared at this point, Stephens said.

and agriculture across the state by stimulating markets, finding new ways to add value to and exploring new opportunities for Kentucky agricultural products and farms.

Rand said that the tobacco settlement funds had “changed the face of agriculture in Kentucky,” helping to transition most of the counties in his district predominantly into cattle producing and supporting other diversification projects like wineries, agri-tourism, farmers markets, Kentucky Proud products and more.

“This more than anything in my lifetime has had the biggest impact on agriculture in Kentucky,” Rand said. “These monies have given people an opportunity to do other things beside tobacco.”

But a recent lawsuit will result in a drastic reduction of those funds this year.

In September of 2013, an arbitration panel issued a ruling regarding disputed funds associated with the MSA. The MSA required states to collect escrow payments from tobacco companies that were not part of the MSA in order to help ensure that companies that were part of the original lawsuit did not lose market shares. The four tobacco companies that were part of the original MSA claimed that several states, including Kentucky, had not diligently enforced escrow payments from the tobacco companies that did not participate in the MSA, and therefore did not fulfill their requirement to collect funds from those other tobacco companies.

Kentucky chose to satisfy the arbitration in one payment, resulting in the dramatic reduction in funds this year, but if there are no additional developments, the county allocation amount will be back to normal payment level next year.

“It’s a matter of short-term pain for long-term gain,” Rand said.

Since 2001, county Agricultural Development Boards have been tasked with reviewing applications from farmers interested in utilizing these monies. If applications are approved at a county level, they move on to the state board for approval. In Henry County, while several individual projects have been supported through these funds, the majority of the monies have been distributed through the County Agriculture Investment Program (CAIP).

Henry County usually receives about $320,000. This year it is expected that Henry County will receive $140,000, a reduction of 58 percent, according to Steve Moore, Henry County Agriculture Extension Agent. The county board has already allocated $50,000 of the expected $140,000 to support the new meat processing plant in Campbellsburg. The board is now faced with determining how to distribute the remaining funds.

The Henry County Cattlemen’s Board and the Henry County Agricultural Development Board will meet collectively on May 22 to discuss their options. Currently considerations include distributing smaller award amounts this year. Typically, farmers apply for a 50-50 cost-share of a $5,000 project. For the coming funding cycle, that amount might be reduced to $2,500. Or the boards may decide not to distribute funds this year, rolling the remainder of the allocation into next year’s funding cycle.

“That would make 2015 even better,” Moore said. “But farmers throughout Kentucky are on hold until they know all the money’s in the bank.”

Tingle to replace Bright at Eastern Elementary

BY CHRIS BROOKE
editor@hclocal.com

Eastern Elementary will see a transition in June as Principal Sharon Bright retires, opening the way for its new leader, Chelsey Tingle.

Bright served in Henry County schools for 24 years, after going to Kentucky State for her undergrad work and completing her graduate work at University of Louisville.

The retiring principal described herself as a non-traditional student who didn't pursue a college degree until after she had children of her own.

Part of the inspiration to become a teacher arose from her work with the children at her church, Pleasureville Baptist, including teaching children's Sunday school and mission group.

"I loved working with kids and I wanted to make a difference in some small way," Bright, a graduate of Henry County schools herself hailing from Franklinton, felt blessed and fortunate to be hired by the school system.

She began teaching sixth grade at New Castle, went to teach sixth when it got transferred to the middle school, moved to Eastern Elementary where she taught fifth grade and served as principal for 10 years there.

"I love this school," Bright said. "The people here are amazingly dedicated to the community. The staff here works like a family. We're a team. I was lucky to get this position."

Bright decided to retire after her husband had a health scare earlier this year. That caused her to begin to reevaluate her time. "Life is short," she said.

She intends to spend more time with family and friends and possibly travel.

"It has been a gift, it has been rewarding beyond measure," Bright said. "There's nothing more rewarding than to see a child grow in confidence and have success in their learning."

Educators at Eastern work long hours and give so much of themselves, she said. The educators want to prepare the children for the brightest possible future.

"If anything I've accomplished has been good, it's because of the staff," Bright said.

When Chelsey Tingle's tenure starts, she hopes to continue the really great work that got underway under Bright.

"I'm extremely excited and grateful for the opportunity of the community they have there," the new principal said.

She looks forward to joining the school and its 206 students and learning about the community.

"Just to embrace the community, and, hopefully, they embrace me."

Tingle began working with Henry County schools this year as the college and career readiness counselor with the Race to the Top program.

Prior to that, she served as a special education teacher with Eminence Elementary for five years.

When she attended University of Kentucky in 2008 and received her bachelors of arts in sociology, Tingle said that probably arose from being "in denial" about wanting to be a teacher.

The same year, she began her masters in learning from Kentucky State University, and followed that up with a masters of arts and educational instructional leadership from the University of the Cumberland in 2012.

"I've always enjoyed being with children and working with children — taught dance all through high school," she said. "I really enjoyed being with kids."

Beginning as a substitute, Tingle found she could get into the classroom quicker by getting her alternative certificate.

After getting hired by Eminence schools, she had a lot of opportunities to serve on committees and the site-based council, and realized she enjoyed working with adults and faculty, too.

This allowed her to work quite a bit with teachers, helping with data analysis and collaborating on lesson plans.

"I enjoy that side of it — coaching teacher, helping them feel confidence themselves, helping them do what's best for kids," Tingle said.

"My ultimate goal is always to do what's best for kids."

Getting to know the Eastern Elementary community is next on the agenda.

"I'm very grateful for all of the experiences that have led me to this opportunity," Tingle said. "I look forward to many years at Eastern."

Henry County schools Superintendent Tim Abrams praised Bright for her career and her leadership at Eastern for the last ten years, saying she's done an awesome job.

Tingle will be the fourth principal of the elementary school, following Earl Holmes, Brad Hargrove and Bright.

Tingle will be a good fit at Eastern, Abrams expects.

"Eastern is a wonderful elementary school with outstanding student achievement and wonderful parent and community support," the superintendent said. "[Tingle] has a wonderful work ethic and is a very intelligent lady. I know that because I was her middle school principal and I watched her grow up..."

Edwards will not have to pay back. Additionally, the state will provide zero interest loans to pull their working total up to $500,000. The co-owners will have to secure the remaining $500,000 on their own.

The idea for a meat processing plant in this area began several years ago, but no real actions had been taken to move the project forward until last October when an exhaustive feasibility study was conducted by the Kentucky Center for Agriculture and Rural Development. That study established what a steering committee had been trying to prove — that there was significant interest and need for such a facility in this area.

To date, livestock producers in Henry County were forced to drive at least 90 minutes to the nearest processing facility.

"That was a key component of the steering committee, identifying the wants and needs of anyone who wanted to direct-market meat here," said Steve Moore, Henry County Agricultural Extension Agent. "A one-and-a-half hour drive is detrimental to the animal and greatly contributes to the producer's expense and time commitment. The survey showed that more people who are not currently direct-marketing are interested, but that something had kept them from getting in the game."

Moore said that more often than not, the "something" that deterred potential meat producers was logistics. Having a USDA-certified facility in the region will not only facilitate the process for existing producers, but also encourage new producers to try their hand at marketing local meat.

"The cost of processing won't be any cheaper, but transportation is key here. This will make producers more competitive in the market," Moore said. "Plus, it will make it easier for people who want to raise their own meat to process animals for their own consumption."

"Henry County is a great place to raise good quality livestock," Moore added. "This should give more people the chance to put their own meat on their plates."

Henry County Judge-Executive John Logan Brent views the processing facility as an economic boon to the county, for three specific reasons.

"This will help local farmers by saving gas and time and opening up new markets for them. It creates a handful of new jobs in our county, and it brings people into Henry County to spend money," Brent said.

"There is a huge market for quality locally-raised meat."

Brent added the project is the result of a coordinated team effort between elected officials, farmers, consumers and Agricultural Development Boards in several counties.

"It really feels good for the team," Brent said. "An employee that has worked with the Governor's Office for Agricultural Policy for 14 years told me that this was the most community support he's ever seen for this kind of project. Now that's something to be proud of."

Wright and Edwards, who expect to break ground in August and open in January 2015, said they are overwhelmed by the support they have received.

"I don't know how we'll be able to thank everybody who's supported this. It's been unbelievable," Edwards said. "Henry County really set the standard and gave us real momentum going to other counties."

Henry County's Agricultural Development Board awarded the project $50,000. Boards in Shelby, Oldham and Trimble counties collectively allocated $55,000. Monies might also be forthcoming from Owen and Jefferson counties.

The Henry County Fiscal Court is selling 2.9 acres of the industrial park in Campbellsburg to the owners for $12,500 and preparing the land for its first tenants by running water lines and dripping electric service to the pump station at the back of the property at no cost. United Citizens Bank will be the lending agent to round out funding on the facility.

"Chris and I are pretty down-to-earth guys and we will never forget the amount of work that people have put into this," Edwards said.

"Finding a way to thank everybody will be a hard row to hoe."

Stanley added, and he made the motion to add Gray to council.

Gray would be sworn in before the next council meeting.

After the meeting, Morgan said that Higgins had shown up to "three in the past year and this is the third consecutive meeting he has not attended and he hasn't provided the city with any notification he would not be able to attend the meeting."

While peoples' lives change, it has been difficult to operate without knowing whether Higgins would attend the meetings, Morgan said.

Last month, city council couldn't reach a quorum, meaning they couldn't approve anything — even the minutes of the prior meeting.

"He's done a disservice to the city and to the community for not keeping the city abreast of what his situation is so we could make contingencies, so we can plan who is going to be here or not, if we're going to have a quorum for a meeting," Morgan said. "If it was a matter that he was ill and was hospitalized that would be understandable [I] don't know if he's working or sitting home watching TV and he's not letting us know."

Do you need something to do?

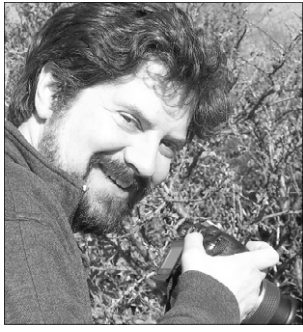

“Do you need something to do?” ranks among the top questions that I hate to hear.

Having that query posed to me probably means my features have twisted themselves into an expression of bafflement or irritation.

As someone who likes to stay occupied and keep working towards goals, I want to avoid a lot of downtime.

Fortunately for me, then, the business of setting up my new home means there’s been no shortage.

It doesn’t matter much if the task involves every day rigmarole or the rare organizational chore.

CHRIS brooke
Editor

Mowing the grass has become an easy but weekend-consuming ritual recently.

Cleaning always needs doing — as long as we keep wanting to eat and go outside, where all the maple tree helicopters ready to be tracked in are. The dust mop and dishrag stay within arms’ reach.

Walking the dog gets turned from a pit stop in the yard to a day’s exercise and a stress-reducing hike for the whole family, preferably in natural areas.

Thankfully, Louisville has many such opportunities

The other day, we discovered Waverly Park on the southern end of the city. Where most people either fish in the manmade lake or ride mountain bikes in the woods, we took a vigorous three-mile walk that actually played out more like a step aerobics class due to the terrain.

Lately, creating a new nest in Kentuckiana carries with it many tasks of a one-and-done variety.

Sustained spring rains last week proved the neighbor’s concerns about lots of pools forming in the space between our houses. So, off to the home improvement store to find a mass-produced solution.

Four lengths of 10-foot, black plastic corrugated pipe and collection basin and T-connector later, this one-size-fits-all solution indeed worked surprisingly well.

I had no idea about the distance between the two downspouts on the carport, but my purchases fit like a glove.

Pays to be lucky. A couple more trips to the store for more pipe in order to be sure that runoff will never again seep into anyone’s basement but run to the absolute back of the property. From there, it should flow into a municipal drain and on to wherever the public system goes.

A related need comes from the desire to move a pile of rock and concrete rubble that pre-dated us.

As another little blessing, this became a free component of my drainage idea to channel water, to help hide the pipe and lessen the need for digging, and to fight future erosion.

But probably my favorite chore arose from the need to dispose of the decomposed remains of a tree that fell eons ago. The resulting bonfire allowed me to christen the backyard pit that came with the house. It also allowed me to feel the heat and stare into the flickering flames for an evening while rationalizing that it’s necessary work.

Well, I guess it’s time to wrap up writing this column and find something else to do.

Hanging pictures on the walls, building shelves to store quilts and sweaters, going to the grocery store and other kinds of establishing a home and organizing are all on the agenda.

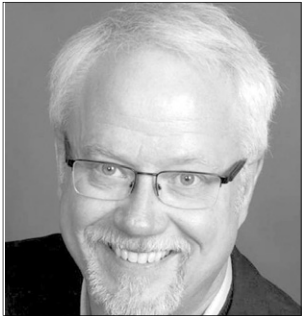

Sounds like a productive time!

The time to come together is now

This morning the dust is settling, and after a long campaign season, we have discovered who the winners of partisan primaries are. Those who will advance to the general election in November, and a few who have actually won their elections.

To those who have won their primary and face no opposition in November, congratulations.

The time has come for winners and losers to come together and focus on fighting the common foe.

JON park
Chair, Henry County GOP

A few years ago, after their spirited primary battle, Trey Grayson and Rand Paul came together, to unite and focus on the Democrat for United States Senate, Jack Conway. Trey Grayson’s gracious and class act, brought healing to the Republican Party, bringing Grayson and Paul supporters together to win that Senate seat.

It is time for those who have lost to step up and follow the example of Grayson, and others before him, who stand with the primary winner, bring healing to a contentious primary season and focus on the battle at hand. Supporters must also step up as well. We are stronger together than we are divided.

The people have spoken, we have a nominee for November. We have to answer a simple question: Are we willing to put the past behind us, and support the primary winner, or are we going take our ball and go home?

There is too much at stake. We have President Barack Obama, instead of President Mitt Romney, because some sat out the election when their guy didn’t win the primary. We have the second term of Governor Steve Beshear because some didn’t like David Williams and sat out. Look what that has cost us.

It is no secret who I supported on the GOP side (as I write this, the election is still a few days away). There are always surprises in elections. Anything can happen. Remember Dewey winning over Truman in the presidential election?

I have pledged, and it being published as record, will support AND campaign for the winner of the Republican Party nominees for the United States Senate and the Kentucky State Senate.

We must work together to win in November. To do otherwise is a vote for the opposition.

We must come together to fight the common foe.

The cost to sit it out is too great.

Diabetes rates

Did you know that in 1995, about 120,000 Kentucky adults had been diagnosed with diabetes, and by 2010, the prevalence rate for diabetes had increased to 10 percent or approximately 370,000 adults? For 2012, this rate is slightly higher at 10.7 percent

In Henry County, we have nearly 2,000 citizens, or 12.7 percent, living with diabetes and many more with undiagnosed cases.

The KIPDA Rural Diabetes Coalition ~ Henry County Chapter wants to help those living with diabetes to reduce their risk of complications. How can that happen? First, admit that you have diabetes and not a little bit of sugar. Second, admit the need for education. Studies show that persons living with diabetes who attend classes do better. Additionally, family and friends can accompany the person to learn about diabetes and healthier options.

Our next educational class starts on June 3 and will meet for six consecutive Tuesdays from 1p.m. until 3:30 p.m. at the Henry County Help Center located at 4844 North Main Street in Eminence. Pre-registration is required for the Stanford Diabetes Self-Management Class. Contact Mona Huff at 845-6849 or monahuff.henrykipda@gmail.com. Today is the day to make a decision for better health!

Correction

The sewer treatment fee increase for New Castle noted in last week’s article, “City increases fees for services to cover costs,” was incorrect.

Currently, residents pay a flat sewer service charge of $10.88 per month, which will not change. The charge per gallon treated will increase from $5.64 per 1,000 gallons to $6.32.

As the minimum charge is based on 2,000 gallons, residents are currently paying $22.16 per month and after July 15, the monthly charge for minimum usage will be $23.52, an increase of $1.36 per month.

Henry Countians donated nearly 2,250 pounds of food to the Henry County Help Center during the U.S. Postal Service's "Stamp Out Hunger" food drive last Saturday. Putting the ‘care’ in ‘Apothecary’

WILL PHILLIPS
news@hclocal.com

Eminence Mayor Drane Stephens wanted to help a business leader bring Eminence Apothecary to the city. Now, he’s behind the counter, running the new store.

Jerry Barnett came up with the idea and sought out the mayor to ask about the business climate and fees, the mayor said.

“I knew Jerry from years ago in pharmacy, so I had an idea that he wanted to put a pharmacy here, but I really tried to be neutral about it,” Stephens said. “Because, being a pharmacist, I wanted to make sure that I treated the initial approach as mayor.”

After Barnett bought the building at 5551 S. Main St., he asked Stephens for advice about who could work in the new pharmacy.

The mayor shared several names, and then he put in a word about his interest, as well.

With 15 years of experience working in Eminence until Cook’s Pharmacy closed, Stephens said he wanted to come back ever since he left.

“I had already decided that the next opportunity that I had to return to work in Eminence, that I was going to do that,” Stephens said. “Because, as mayor, I feel like I can do my mayor job easier and better by being here every day.”

This fell into his lap at a time when Stephens — an Eminence resident of 19 years who was first elected mayor four years ago — had to decide whether to run again for mayor or not.

“And my decision was, ‘well, if I can work here, I would do it.’ So it kind of all worked fine, as the election is coming up in November.”

He also feels as though working in Eminence will make him a more accessible mayor, as people can simply come into the store and speak with him, instead of trying to catch him at a meeting or on the phone.

On the business side of things, Stephens said Eminence Apothecary has exceeded their goals to this point.

“We’ve got a long way to go, but we had a one-month goal, a six-month goal and a one-year goal,” he said. “And we had already surpassed the one-month goal at three weeks. So hopefully it continues in that direction, but we’re very happy so far.”

Stephens also sees the value of a hometown alternative to pharmaceutical mega chain CVS.

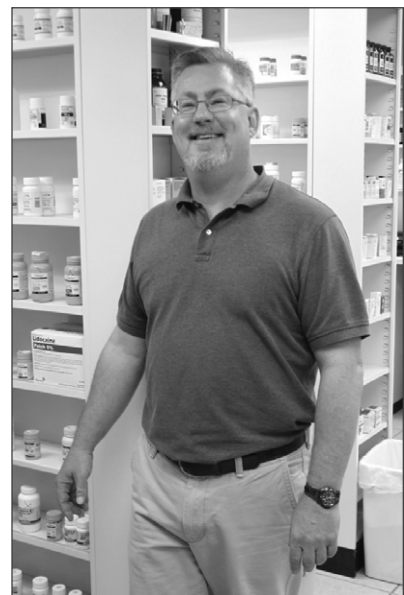

“We’re the only alternative to CVS. We’re locally-owned, locally-operated,” adding that he thinks it would be ideal to have a community of totally locally-owned businesses.

“Of course, we as a city council would love all of our businesses to be locally-owned, for the reason that people who have skin in the game, the success of their business depends on the people of that town,” the mayor said. “But whenever we can have a local person who wants to open a business here, it’s a big plus.”

All in all, Stephens said he loves being back in Eminence. “I’m very happy. I’m thrilled to be back. I love working in my hometown and not commuting. I love seeing all the residents.”

They love seeing him, too, as evidenced by a customer yelling, “we love having you back,” as she exited the store.

“It’s like a reunion,” Stephens said. “All of the customers I had at Cook’s have started coming back and you know everybody that walks through the door.” He added with a smile, “I couldn’t be happier to be back in Eminence.”

Johnson & Co. floored by opportunity

WILL PHILLIPS/LOCAL

Chad Johnson hopes to cut out the middleman with his new flooring business

WILL PHILLIPS
news@hclocal.com

Johnson & Co. Flooring hit the ground running on Main Street in Eminence two months ago.

A lifelong desire to be an entrepreneur led owner Chad Johnson to open the business.

“I started doing floor covering about 12 years ago,” Johnson said. “[Opening my own business] is something I’ve always thought about doing. I thought it was kinda out of my reach, but the building became available here and I got the idea and it was kind of like, ‘why not?’ I just decided to go ahead and do it. I’m at that age, I’m ready.”

The business eliminates the middleman for customers.

“I always had to send my flooring customers to other flooring stores and that doesn’t ever work out very well,” he said. “I was sending my customers to other stores to try and get deals together and running them all over the place, basically. So I just decided to open my own.”

Keeping everything in house seems to be the theme for Johnson & Co. Chad, who also installs, sells flooring and runs the shop, said it helps the customer feel more at ease when they can see the same face from start to finish.

“That’s where we feel we have an advantage over other flooring stores,” Angela Graves, Johnson’s girlfriend and co-worker said. “A lot of them will contract their work to other contractors for the install, but here we’re going to sell the material and install it for you.”

According to Johnson, business has been better than expected.

“It’s actually been great,” he said. “Of course, in a small town, everyone wants to take a look at new businesses. But we actually did very well. But it doesn’t take long for word to travel around here. We’ve been very excited, it’s been great so far.”

Since the formula is working he’s content to let it grow naturally. “I think we plan on staying here for quite awhile, as long as we can. Everything we need is already here. We plan to keep it local.”

Currently, Johnson & Co. is the only flooring business in Henry County, but Chad says that he isn’t going to shy away from competition.

“I would welcome competition. I wouldn’t worry about it,” he said. “I feel like we can do a service for the county.”

In addition to the flooring store, Graves has opened Primitive Gift Shop in the back of the building, where she sells various decorative items, such as potpourri and wall hangings.

“It’s a lot like Cracker Barrel,” Graves said. “We will have some actual antiques, too, but mainly new items.” She added that they will be offering gift wrapping and specials during the holidays.

Johnson and Graves said they don’t like to use the word, ‘customer.’ Graves said they prefer, “friends and family.”

“I always know how I liked to be treated when I went into a business,” he said. “And getting to actually do that...I can make sure that customers are treated the way that I want them to be treated.”

Johnson & Co. will have a grand opening event, beginning, Wednesday, May 21 and running through the end of the month. For more information, call (502) 706 1403.

The KY Renaissance Faire opens May 31 for the next 6 weekends. This is so much fun for the entire family. Shows, music, great food and drink, and vendors will make for a fun day. Admission is $15.

Our Business spotlight this week is on a new business in New Castle. Robert “Bobby” Foree has recently opened his law office in the Berry and Floyd building at 19 North Main Street. Bobby is a farmer/lawyer who has deep roots in Henry County. He officially opened his office in October 2013 with a ribbon cutting and reception. He does all types of cases with the exception of criminal and bankruptcy. Probate, estate planning, real estate and business law are his main interests, but like the general medical practice physician who knows where to send you when the problem needs the expert, Bobby will send you to the lawyer who specializes in your particular problem if necessary. He has contacts all over the state that can help with just about any situation.

Although Bobby still farms, he commented,

“As a person ages, it is not as easy to do some of the farm chores, so in thinking over how I wanted to spend the rest of my life, I realized I could give back to my community through the law. My farm background serves me well in dealing with situations about farming, and I have a masters in Ag Education (1977), but in 1991, at the age of 35, I went back to law school, graduated, and later taught ag law at U.K.” He now serves on many statewide committees and boards which help him stay up-to-date on the many changes in today’s society.

His family, Jean Kaye, Roby and Ashley are most supportive of his law career. Bobby has a unique approach to both his career and life, “Money is not the goal. Honesty, integrity, and putting the interests of my client first is my philosophy. If a person finds a career he/she loves, this person never has to go to work as he/she enjoys it so much, it doesn’t feel like work.” His advice to young people is to “maintain good character and do your best, and success will come.”

His office is manned by Terry Henderson and Midge Cox without whom he could never get it all done. The office is open Monday-Thursday from 9-4 and at other times by appointment. You can reach the Robert H. Foree Law Office at 502-845-4600 or his cell at 502-939-4607. His e-mail is robertforee@bellsouth.net.

Improve your health by reducing your sodium

We are a nation that loves salt. Unfortunately, too much sodium can cause you to retain excess fluid in the body, putting pressure on your heart. This can lead to high blood pressure, one of the major risk factors for heart disease. The American Heart Association estimates that about one in three Americans will be diagnosed with high blood pressure at some point in their lives. For people with diabetes, their chances of also getting high blood pressure are doubled.

The American Heart Association suggests people consume no more than 1,500 milligrams of sodium each day. That equals a little more than half a teaspoon. Most Americans two years old and up consume twice that amount—more than 3,400 milligrams a day.

Fortunately, you can make dietary changes that can help you reduce your risk for both diseases by reducing your sodium intake.

Reducing sodium can be difficult, because it is in so much more than rolls, cold cuts and cured meats, pizza, fresh and processed chicken and canned soups.

High amounts of sodium are also found in unexpected places including condiments, dairy products, chewing tobacco and snuff.

The National Institutes of Health suggest the following tips for reducing or cutting back on your sodium:

- Buy fresh, plain, frozen or canned vegetables labeled no salt added.
- Use fresh poultry, fish and lean meats rather than canned or processed.
- Season with herbs, spices and other salt-free seasonings instead of salt.

- Cook rice, pasta and hot cereal without added salt.
- Choose convenience foods that are lower in salt.
- Rinse canned foods that contain salt to remove some of the sodium.
- Purchase foods with low sodium, reduced sodium or no salt added when available.
- Choose ready-to-eat breakfast cereals that are lower in sodium.

By reading food labels at the grocery store, you can get an idea of the amount of sodium in individual foods. Focus particularly on the Percent Daily Value information on the nutrition label to see the percent of your daily allowance you're getting from a serving of a particular food. This will help you compare products and make healthier choices.

Since salt does add flavor to foods, it may take you a week or two to get used to eating items with less or no salt. For more information on healthy eating, contact the Henry County Extension Office of the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service.

Educational programs of Kentucky Cooperative Extension serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability, or national origin.

Meat processing plant earns financial support

During the Kentucky Agriculture Development Board meeting last Friday in Owingsville, the Board voted to approve and support the regional meat processing facility, to be located in the Henry County Commerce Park near Campbellsburg. Named 'Trackside Butcher Shoppe' by owners/operators John Edwards and Chris Wright, the approximately 6,500 square foot meat processing facility will be USDA Inspected, and will process Beef, Sheep, Swine, Goats, Rabbits and Chickens, with a two week hiatus to process deer in the fall. A retail component is planned, as well as a kitchen for value-added further processing of meats.

In addition to KADF funds and loans, the project has received major financial support from regional county Agriculture Development Councils including Henry, Shelby, Oldham, and Trimble. Other county ADC's are expected to support the project as county allocations are released.

It is anticipated that construction of the facility may begin by late summer.

Cow Disposition Affects Pregnancy Rate

Now we have another good excuse to cull cows due to bad temperament. While we've observed that cows that wanted to evaluate the effects of cow temperament and energy status on the probability to become pregnant during a 90-day natural breeding season. Cows were scored as 1-calm, no movement-to 5-violent and continuous struggling while in the working chute. Also a pen score assessment was assigned as 1-unalarmed and unexcited-to 5-very excited and aggressive toward technician. Even the speed at which the cows exited the working chute was rated. An overall temperament index score was calculated by averaging the chute score, pen score and exit velocity score. Blood samples were analyzed for cortisol, a hormone released when mammals are stressed or excited. Increased cow temperament score and elevated plasma cortisol concentrations both were associated with decreased probability of pregnancy. These results suggest that excitable temperament is detrimental to reproductive function of cows.

In short, an unruly and nervous cow should be on your list to send to the stockyard, so you and your working crew will be safer, and you'll reap the benefits of this dandy cull cow market.

FSA NOTES

The Farm Service Agency reminds agricultural producers of the acreage reporting requirements that must be met prior to receiving program benefits. In order to comply with FSA program eligibility requirements, all producers are encouraged to visit the local FSA office at New Castle to file an accurate crop certification report by

Look at me!

DEAR ALL, MY parents just recently lived outside of Rineyville. Due to health problems they recently auctioned their home and everything in it. If you recently purchased items at an auction at 5325 Salt River Road outside of Rineyville, would you please check your purchases for a handful of martial arts books written by Dan Inosanto (4 books), Larry Hartsell (4 books), Chris Kent, and Tim Tackett (2 books) on the art of Jeet Kune Do. These were books I had stored for safe keeping while I went overseas. These men are my teachers and have inscribed a few of the books. Larry Hartsell has passed so replacing this would be impossible. If you happen to find these books, please contact Tim. 310-203-1364 or bafeet@yahoo.com

2013 Report on Water Quality for the Eminence Water Works PWS#KY0520122

THIS REPORT CONTAINS INFORMATION ABOUT YOUR DRINKING WATER

Why This Report?

This report discusses the quality of the water delivered to your tap by the Eminence Water Works. We strive to produce the best quality of water possible. This means we want you to always have water that: has a clean taste, is clear and crisp in appearance, never has an unpleasant smell and is safe and healthful to drink.

Where Does Your Water Come From?

We get our water from the Henry County Water District #2. They obtain their water from six wells along the Ohio River in Trimble County near the end of Morton Ridge Road. Although the wells are along the Ohio River, the water has been shown to be groundwater originating from areas inland from the river. An analysis of the susceptibility of this water source to contamination has been completed and it has been determined that the susceptibility is medium. There are a total of 5 potential sources of contamination within the protection area of these wells with the following susceptibility rankings: 2 are high, 3 are medium and none are low. Two of these sources of contamination, above ground storage tanks and agricultural activities are ranked as high susceptibility. Three sources of contamination, septic tanks and a county road are ranked as medium susceptibility. The complete susceptibility analysis report can be viewed at the KIDA Area Development District office in Louisville or the Kentucky Division of Water office in Frankfort.

What Does the Water Treatment Plant Do to Your Water?

After pumping the water from the wells, it is treated with processes that remove any objectionable tastes or odors and then disinfected with chlorine before it is pumped to our customers. These processes primarily achieve filtration and disinfection of the water. This helps to remove any harmful chemicals, bacteria and other microorganisms that might be in the water.

If You Have Questions or Want to Get Involved

Questions about this report or operation of the water plant can be directed to Mr. William Smith at 845-4159. The Eminence city council is the governing body for the Water Works and meets at the Eminence City Hall at 6:15 pm on the second Monday of every month.

Understanding This Report

In order to help you understand this report, we want you to understand a few terms and abbreviations that are contained in it.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG): It is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL): This is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL): Is the highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that the addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG): Is the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLG's do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

Action Level (AL) An action level is the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

NTU means Nephelometric Turbidity Units and is a measure of turbidity (cloudiness).

ppm means parts per million or milligrams per liter and is a measure of the concentration of a contaminant.

ppb (or ug/L) means parts per billion or micrograms per liter and is a measure of the concentration of a contaminant.

Treatment Technique (TT) is a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water ppm means parts per million or milligrams per liter and is a measure of the concentration of a contaminant.

ppb means parts per billion or micrograms per liter and is a measure of the concentration of a contaminant.

pCi/L means picocuries per liter and is a measure of radioactivity

N/A means not applicable for this item

Most of the results in the table are from monitoring during the 2013 calendar year. However, some contaminants are not required to be monitored on an annual basis and so the results may be from prior years.

Special Information on Lead

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Eminence Water Works is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

1 – Turbidity is a measure of the cloudiness of the water. We monitor it because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of our filtration system.

Violations

Eminence received no violation for the year 2013.

Why Are There Contaminants in My Water?

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals, and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be in source water before treatment include:

Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, that may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife.

Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, that can be naturally occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.

Pesticides and herbicides, that may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, stormwater runoff and residential uses.

Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic systems.

Radioactive contaminants that can be naturally occurring or the result of oil and gas production or mining.

In order to ensure that your water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water that must provide the same protections for public health.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

Do I Need to Take Any Special Precautions?

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immune compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline at (800)-426-4791.

8TH Annual New Castle Lions Club Charity Truck and Tractor Pull

The "Menace" out of Angola, Ind. roared down the track, leaving thick black smoke in its wake.

The reigning Miss Henry County Jenna Colston donned her sash and crown for the truck pull. Here she offered to help out in the booth selling New Castle Lions Club t-shirts.

The lone local boy in Saturday night's competition was Tad Ingram of Campbellsburg. His tractor, Natural Disaster, pulled to a fourth place finish in the Super Farm Tractor division. Ingram said it was the first pull of the season for him, but his fourth or fifth year on the national circuit. He hopes to start a business building pulling and performance engines and doing dyno work.

Attending his first truck pull ever, four-year-old Benjamin Allen held his ears against the noise of the truck behind him pulling the sled down the track.

The New Castle Lions Club held its 8th annual Truck and Tractor Pull this past weekend. Although poor track conditions resulted in a cancellation Friday night, Saturday night's pull went off without a hitch. Pullers from nine states made the trip to the fairgrounds to compete in the Lucas Oil Pro Pulling League sanctioned event. The event's coordinator, Justin Atchison, was quick to point out all those who contributed to the effort, including the New Castle Lions Club members, Nate Buckler, Steve Davie, Camie Hagan and Michael Douglas.

landed awkwardly after going over a hurdle in the final turn of the 300 meter hurdles and injured her ankle. She managed to continue the race and finished fourth with a good time of 51.8. The time turned out to be good enough to make her an at-large qualifier but Fischer was later diagnosed with a fractured bone in her foot and she will not be able to run in the state meet.

Freshman Sara Finley finished fourth in the triple jump but her jump of 30 feet, nine inches made her an at-large qualifier.

Freshman Colby Stanley finished fifth in the discus with a throw of 101 feet, 11 inches while Byron Robbins added to the Wildcats’ strong showing in the throwing events with a fifth place finish at 37 feet, 10 inches in the shot put.

Bo Wagner finished fourth in the triple jump and Jonathan Bates fifth in the high jump to help the Wildcats to their high team finish in which they scored the majority of their points in the field events.

The only Wildcat

individual to score in a running event other than Finley was Jesse Mann who finished sixth in a very strong 800-meter field. Mann ran a time of 2:13.24.

Coach Melissa Sheron was pleased with the team’s performance.

“I am so proud of the athletes who qualified for state,” Sheron said. “The entire team has worked so hard this year.

“Cathryn’s run is an example of her heart and her will to compete. It’s truly an amazing person who can run a state-qualifying run and break her foot in the process. I am so proud of her.

“I am happy that Connor made it as an at-large qualifier. He was very close to making it as an automatic qualifier. I think all three boys who finished as automatic qualifiers have a chance at a state title this year. Hopefully we will come home with three state champions.”

in the first inning and held the Lady Cats hitless through the first three innings before Whaley singled in the top of the fourth.

After the Lady Colonels scored another run in their half of the inning, the Lady Cats threatened with three hits in the fifth but could not get a run home as Katie James was thrown out at the plate trying to score on an infield hit by Madison Rabourn.

The Lady Colonels then added to their lead in the bottom half of the inning with an unearned run.

After Henry County went down in order in the sixth, Oldham County added a final insurance run.

Henry County got a leadoff walk from Mikaela Cline to start the seventh. Cline advanced to second on a groundout by James but was thrown out at third on Molly Williamson’s grounder. With Williamson on first and two outs Ray singled to left field to give the Lady Cats runners on first and second. Rabourn hit a shot to right field that was caught to end the threat and the game.

“We came out a little flat,” Kasten said. “Oldham had some hits in the first inning that just seemed to fall in front of our fielders. There was nothing hard-hit, just bloopers that were finding the open spots. Paige DeBurger pitched well. She threw the ball where we wanted her to but they just were able to get their bats on them and put balls in the open field. Aly came in the second inning and did okay.

“We just struggled with their pitching during this game,” he continued. “We tried to make some adjustments throughout the game but just could never really get anything going offensively. Shelby Ray had a couple of hits and Olivia continued to hit the ball very well.”

wild pitch put a runner on third with two outs. But the final batter of the game flew out to left field to preserve Clark's shutout.

Dill was pleased with the team's performance. "We played really well," Dill said. "I was happy to see our kids respond after the Collins game."

Bodie was phenomenal, pitching a complete game shut out. He did not walk a single hitter until the seventh and we played solid defense. We were able to manufacture some runs to pull out the win against a very solid Trimble County team.

It was good to get a win and a solid pitching performance."

Collins 21 HCHS 2

The Cats faced most people's pick as the best team in the region the night before, and the host Titans showed why with 24 hits and solid pitching that allowed Henry County just six hits.

The Cats scored first in the top of the first inning. New was hit by a pitch to lead off the game. West followed with a single and New advanced to third on an error. Tuggle followed with a ground ball to third and the Titan's settled for a force at second allowing New to score.

Collins responded in their half of the inning by sending 14 hitters to the plate and racking up seven hits and 10 runs. The Titans added five more runs in the second before Henry County scored their second run of the game.

New led off with a single and eventually came around to score on an Adams single to left field.

Collins added six more runs over the next three innings before the game was called on the 10-run rule.

"We ran into a very, very good team," Dill said. "They earned the majority of their runs. It was their senior night and they came out swinging. We walked a couple of batters but really, they just were hot hitting. They are ranked as a top three team in the state for a reason. We came to play, but sometimes you just run into a better team on that particular night."

Nelson Co. 10 HCHS 8

The Wildcats traveled to Nelson County on Thursday night for what turned out to be the final game of the regular season after rain cancelled their home finale against Williamstown on Friday.

Henry County fell behind early but battled back only to come up two runs short in the end.

After Nelson County scored twice in the first inning the Cats responded in the top of the second with two runs.

Adams who went three for three with a walk led off with a double to left field. He advanced to third on a wild pitch before scoring on a sacrifice fly by Robbins.

Bodie Clark then reached base when a pitch hit him. Clark came around to score when Connor Smith's fly ball to right field misplayed into a two base error.

Nelson County added three more runs in their half of the inning to go up 5-2.

After a scoreless third inning the Cats scored a run when Adams hit another double, advanced to third on a single by Robbins and came around to score on an error by the third baseman.

But the Cardinals again responded to the Wildcat rally with three runs of their own in the bottom of the inning to make it 8-3. They added two more in the fifth to make it a seven-run lead and looked as if the Cardinals would sail to an easy victory.

But the Wildcats were not done. They came back for five runs in the top of the sixth to make it a two-run game.

Tuggle and Fish led off with back-to-back singles before Adams walked to load the bases. Robbins followed with a ground ball to shortstop. The Cardinals threw home for the force play but Tuggle was safe and the Cats still had bases loaded with no outs. Bodie Clark drew a walk to force in another run before Stevenson singled to add the third run. Blake Prather was hit by a pitch to force in the fourth run and New followed with a ground ball to second that scored the fifth and final run of the inning.

The Cats held the Cardinals scoreless in the bottom of the inning and threatened with two outs in the top of the seventh when Adams and Robbins hit back-to-back singles. But Nelson County was able to get a groundout to shortstop to end the threat and the game.

Dill was unhappy with his pitching staff's lack of control as they gave seven free passes.

"Walks killed us in this game," Dill said. "They hit the ball pretty well and when teams hit like they do, you cannot afford to give them free bases, which almost always turn into runs."

The first-year coach was pleased that his team battled back.

"Offensively, our guys stepped up and showed some good things at the plate," Dill said. "Dylan Adams had three hits, including two doubles, and Tyler Robbins had another big game at the plate. Our guys fought hard. We simply could not overcome the walks."

The Cats ended the regular season with a 10-20 record while Nelson County finished 17-13.

before hitting a batter. But he came back to get his 11th strikeout of the game for the final out.

"Austin really pitched a good game," Paris said. "He didn't try to do anything spectacular. He just threw to the mitt."

A.J. Shaw had a good week offensively and defensively," Paris said. "He had a couple of singles that found the left field gap against Burgin and he hit the ball well all week."

Trimble Co. 7 EHS 1

The Warriors got good pitching from an unusual source but couldn't get enough offense to pull out a win over the Raiders.

Catcher Mitchell Mettin who has been used sparingly on the mound went the distance. "We had two or three errors that hurt us in this game," Paris said. Mitchell pitched well.

The Warriors took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Shaw drew a one-out walk. Bell also drew a walk to give the Warriors runner on first and second. Cameron Mathis followed with a double to score Shaw.

Trimble County tied in their half of the inning with a single, two stolen bases and a double.

The Warriors fell behind 4-1 in the third when Trimble County drew a walk, then got help from the Warriors with a two-base error to the outfield. Another double did the rest of the damage in the three-run third.

Trimble added a run in the fourth and two in the fifth and the Warriors failed to produce many chances until the sixth when Shaw was hit by a pitch and Bell singled, but they were unable to get the another hit.

Andrew Coomes leadoff double in the seventh was the Warriors only other hit.

"We hit the ball well," Paris said. We've been hitting better but we haven't been able to string them together. Little base running errors also took us out of some possible big innings."

Walton-Verona 19 EHS 0

"We didn't play that poorly," Paris said. Walton just hit the ball real well. They had a couple of home runs and several extra-base hits. The same guy hit both homers. One of them went over the goal post in right field." The Bearcats had 19 hits in the game. Nine of those were for extra bases.

"We made the little plays we need to make," Paris said. "They just killed the ball and found the gaps all night."

Clark blanks Raiders; Wildcats win 6-0

Cats fall to Collins, Nelson

BY GREG WOODS

The Henry County Wildcats defeated the visiting Trimble County Raiders 6-0 on May 13

behind a strong pitching performance from sophomore Bodie Clark. Clark allowed four hits, struck out five and walked one on the way to a complete game victory. The Cats manufactured six runs on only three hits. Dylan Adams and Tyler Robbins led the offense with two RBIs each.

The Cats generated their runs by taking advantage of four Trimble County errors and seven walks with good base running. They had eight stolen bases in the game.

Landon New got the Cats off to an early lead. He led off with a walk, stole second base and advanced to third on Ethan Tuggle's single to left field. The Cats attempted a double steal and Tuggle was thrown out while New raced home with the first run of the game.

Henry County added three runs in the third inning. They did all their damage with two outs.

Dylan Adams- Three hits, three runs scored vs. Nelson County

Brad West singled to start the rally, stole second and advanced to third on a wild pitch. West came home on another wild pitch to make 2-0. Tuggle walked, stole second advanced to third when Mason Fish's groundball to third was misplayed for an error and came home on another error. Fish stole both second and third base. Before coming home on an error.

Tuggle scored again in the fifth inning when he reached on an error, stole second and advanced to third on a wild pitch. Another wild pitch brought Tuggle home to make it 5-0.

The Cats final run came in the sixth when Dakota Estes singled to lead off the inning. After Estes stole second base, New laid down a sacrifice bunt to get him to third base. Brad West then hit a fly ball to left field and Estes tagged up and scored. West had the only RBI of the game on the sacrifice fly.

Meanwhile, Clark did not allow a runner past second base through the first six innings but ran into trouble in the seventh. Clark walked the first batter of the inning before the Raiders got a single to left field to put runners on first and second with no outs.

Coach Stuart Dill allowed Clark to stay in the game despite the trouble and he was able to induce a pop up to shallow right field that did not allow the runners to advance. With two outs a groundball to third allowed the Cats to force the lead runner before a

Jones' shutout propels Warriors to victory

Warriors fall to Trimble, Walton

BY GREG WOODS
sports@hclocal.com

The Eminence Warriors' baseball team closed out the regular season with a win over the Burgin Bulldogs on Saturday but it didn't come easy. The Warriors needed a stellar performance from pitcher Austin Jones and a single run in the fifth to notch their second victory of the Bulldogs this season.

Jones struck out eleven, gave up four hits and walked five in getting the complete game victory.

Jones worked out of trouble in the first when the leadoff batter singled and stole second and third base. Jones struck out the next two batters before walking the cleanup hitter but the Warriors were able to get the third out without any damage.

The Warriors had two singles through the first four innings.

"We hit the ball right at people early in the game for easy outs," assistant coach Ryan Paris said.

The Warriors rallied in the fifth for their only run of the game.

A.J. Shaw led off with a single but was forced out at second on a groundball by Travis

Austin Jones-Complete game shutout, 11 strikeouts vs. Burgin

Bell. Bell stole second and third before Hayden Hoofman brought him home with a single for what turned out to be the game-winning RBI.

Jones worked out of trouble in the sixth when a two-base error put the lead off batter on second. After a stolen base put the runner on third Jones struck out the next batter, then walked a batter. He then picked the runner off first base for the second out. After getting the final batter of the inning to fly out, the Warriors came to bat trying to add an insurance run.

Despite hits by Shaw and Bell the Warriors could not push another run across and they had to rely on Jones to preserve the victory.

Jones came through in a big way. He struck out the first two batters of the inning

Six Cats make state

Cravens wins shot put with personal record effort

BY GREG WOODS
sports@hclocal.com

The Henry County Wildcats' track team represented itself well at the Region 3 AA championships on May 13 at Christian Academy of Louisville. The boys' team finished fifth and had four individuals qualify for the state meet, which will be held on Friday at the University of Kentucky track and field complex. The girls' team had two state qualifiers.

Senior Eddie Jones and sophomores Patrick Cravens, Connor Finley and Cameron Johnson were the four boys qualifiers. Jones equaled his personal best vault of 11 feet, six inches to win the pole vault competition. Cravens won the discus competition by shattering his personal best by over eight feet with a throw of 129 feet, 10 inches. Cravens just missed qualifying in the shot put with a distance of 39 feet, ten inches.

Johnson was nipped for a regional championship in the triple jump. Ryan Kozak of North Oldham jumped a personal best 41-01 on his last attempt to beat Johnson by six inches. Johnson also finished fourth in the long jump despite the fact that he concentrated mainly on the triple jump during the regular season.

Finley finished fourth in the 110-meter hurdles but made it when his time of 17.61 made him an at-large qualifier.

Cathryn Fischer was in third place and gaining ground on the top two when she

Lady Cats fall to Oldham, Eastern

Aly Stanley delivers a pitch in the Lady Cats 6-0 loss to Oldham Co.

Game with Oldham benefits cancer research

BY GREG WOODS
sports@hclocal.com

The Henry County Lady cats wrapped up the regular season with a tough slate of games that included trips to Eastern High School and Oldham County before finishing with a doubleheader against Western Hills at home on Friday night.

Eastern 16 HCHS 7

The Eagles jumped on the Lady Cats for six runs in the first inning and never looked back as they pounded out 14 hits. The Eagles' hit parade included seven doubles and two triples.

The Lady Cats' offense was also potent but could not keep up with the Eagles. Henry County had 9 hits including triples by Olivia Whaley and Shelby Ray.

Lady Cat Coach Jon Kasten gave credit to the Eagles' hitting ability rather than finding fault with his own team.

"I was really impressed by Eastern's all around ability," Kasten said. "They are a great hitting team. They also had a good pitcher."

Kasten also praised his team.

"I liked that we didn't just cave in after we got down 6-0 in the top of the first," he said. "We fought and scored as well. Then, again, down 11 going into the bottom of the sixth, we came back with some hits and scored more. We knew going in that this was going to be our toughest week of the season and that Eastern would be one of the top teams we see all year."

Kasten complimented his second baseman for her offensive performance.

"Olivia Whaley hit the ball very well in this game," Kasten said. "She had a bases-clearing triple and scored two herself."

"Overall, we had nine hits against a good pitcher so I was happy with how we hit."

Oldham Co. 6 HCHS 0

Oldham County and Henry County played in a game on Thursday that was dedicated to raising funds for the fight against cancer.

The game was called "Beat Cancer with a Bat" and the teams played in pink uniforms instead of their traditional blue and red colors.

The teams combined to raise about $800 for the National Foundation for Cancer Research through t-shirt sales, concessions, baked goods and ticket sales.

The Lady Colonels came into the game with the second most wins in the 8th Region with a record of 17-11 and showed, with excellent pitching and timely hitting, why they are considered a favorite to defend their 8th Region crown.

They scored two runs
